

The Duke

The 2020 film event

Welcome in 1961, Kempton Bunton, a retired man decides to steal the famous painting of the National Gallery, the Duke of Wellington. Kempton Bunton will then be sought by all British police for the first and only theft in the history of the museum. This story inspired by a real fact takes us into its humorous and sensitive universe. It is a film full of love not to be missed!

Did Kempton Bunton steal the painting or did he just borrow it? It's a question I couldn't answer but I let you discover the film to get this answer!

I really enjoyed this film for its story and originality. But also especially for the endearing characters, we want to follow until the end. It is a film loved for its humorous scenes that touch a very large audience. I would say that it is a film for the whole family but maybe a little less recommended to the smallest. I give four stars to the film "The Duke" for its incredible story but also for the actors and the magnificent cinematic plans that took us to 1961.

This is a film we recommend of course to have a great time in the cinema!
